

The Brainwashed Flock's New Vocabulary by Guy Montag

The year 2020 has been an exciting roller coaster of varying levels of stupidity. Mainly from the moronic sheep populace.

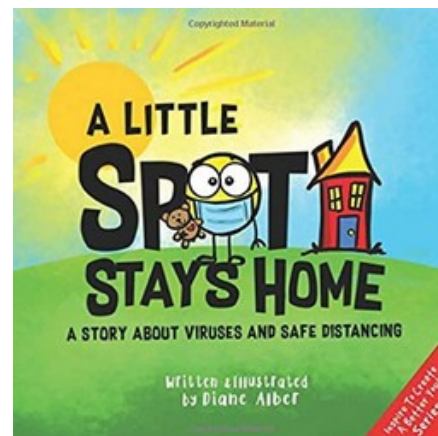

From the very start of this “pandemic” fakery, the powers that be began an attempt to infuse into those they wished to control, cute little catch phrases. At first glance, there were many of us who caught on to the scheme immediately. But sadly, many people still bought into the deception. Indoctrination by repetitive slogans is nothing new. The Romans did it. The Soviet Union did it. North Korea still does it. The fact is, this method of controlling people has been used by tyrannical leaders throughout history because it works. Once enough people in a given population are sheeped, taking all of their rights and producing subservient slaves is easy. The process is almost complete by the time the ruler(s) decide to go full-on 1984. It’s almost complete because the people en masse have allowed it. Most frightening is the fact that people in this country are falling for it now.

Today, I wanted to point out a few of the most common slogans or catch phrases being pushed on us by the media, Government agencies, and entertainment industry. You’ve all become quite acquainted to these. But, I wanted to talk about them in light of the multitude of excuses that the common covid slave tends to use when we push back against them.

- “Flatten the curve”: Remember this one? The idea that we needed to shut everything down for 2 weeks, maybe 3, in order to give health authorities time to ensure there would be enough hospital space? Well, 2 weeks turned into seven months. Some places are still locked down tight. All this when hospitals are nowhere near capacity. And while the emergency spaces reserved for an estimated millions of additional victims sit empty. But what is a common sheep excuse when this is brought up? Second wave. In my experience, every argument about this topic with a flockster ends up with the hoofed one bringing up a “second wave”. Even though there never really was a first.
- “We’re in this together!”: Ummmm, no. We’re not. This is, in my opinion, one of the most annoying. You see it on tv commercials, billboard ads, website sidebar banners, everywhere. My question is, we are in what together? Deception? Fraud? Totalitarianism? But sheep have an answer to this. Instead of being capable of actually answering what it is we are supposed to be in together, they often resort to accusing anyone who doesn’t live by their favorite forced motto, of being haters and wanting everyone to die. Never mind the fact that less than half of half a percent of people infected will pass. But it doesn’t matter. As I have pointed out in previous articles, sheep live for compliance. They don't care about logic or actual threats from a virus or anything else. They only care about virtue signaling and being able to claim their moral superiority to someone else. This phrase gives them license to do just that. If you are not 'in this together', it means that you are not exactly as obedient as them. You have the nerve to think on your own and not be part of the slave collective. You are an outsider. That, really, is all the common sheep cares about. Be like the crowd! The one who owns the crowd said so!

- “Social Distancing”: This one is almost as annoying as the last one. The idea of maintaining 6 feet distance between others has very little, if any, scientific basis. In fact, some researchers have discovered that 3 feet is sufficient. Others claim that the infection rate would be no different regardless. Bring it up to a sheep, and guess what? You are almost always going to be called one of their favorite insults, “a science denier”. The fact that you are quoting research performed by credible Doctors and scientists does not matter. The idea of the term ‘social distancing’ being pounded into the slave’s mind causes them to only see science when their cherry-picked doom & gloom researchers claim it as such. 20 Doctors could state that social distancing does no good, and one could claim otherwise. Guess which of these professional opinions would be seen by the livestock as science? You guessed it. The one versus the 20. And if you happen to believe the 20, you are a no good, uneducated hater who doesn’t believe in science. How dare you!
- “Be kind”: Being seen often as a hashtag online, this whole “be kind” thing seems to be picking up steam. And it is probably one of the biggest oxymorons in human history. The meaning of the phrase ‘be kind’, often has to do with masking. It is often suggested that wearing a diaper on one’s face is a way to show kindness to others. However, since science does not support the idea that the masks stop or slow the spread of infection, some of us choose not to wear one. This can, and does, lead to confrontations with sheep. The people screaming ‘be kind’, are just the opposite when seeing someone without their subservience indicators lashed to their faces. Assaults, both verbally and physically, sometimes ensue. At the very least, the person who is not wearing the mask will receive gestures of hate and looks of anger from the flock. All this while ‘being kind’, of course. The worst part is, these filthy flock members are ALWAYS the ones who approach non maskers to start trouble. It is NEVER the other way around. Be Kind, people!
- “Stay home, stay safe”: If ever you meet someone who doesn’t understand the definition of fear mongering, just point this lovely little saying out to them. This instruction to hide in our homes and not interact with society, should be a red flag as to what exactly is going on. People should have enough common sense to see that. I would think that most people also have eyes to see the world around them, and realize that there is no need to hide in our homes, sobbing in the corner in the fetal position. But, sheep exist. And sheep absolutely love fear mongering like this. This idea has not just continued to be promoted, but the slave populace have generated more than one Facebook group promoting it. Not just that, but merchandise is still selling like hot cakes. Anything from shirts to children’s books which promote locking yourself in your home prison are being shipped to the national flock at an astounding rate. Like the other phrases, speak out against this, and prepare to be called ‘science deniers’. Even though science actually says to go outside and get Vitamin D and fresh air. Again, sheep and logic don’t mix.

In conclusion, I would like to just point out that I do not actually hate the sheep. I actually feel a bit of pity for those who live in the mental prison of Covid slavedom. They are missing out on life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. And it is all by their own choice. They mean to be this way. 100% of their behavior is their fault. Ok, wait a minute. Never mind what I just said about not hating them. I changed my mind. Screw 'em.

I will be leaving you now. I am going outside, without a mask, and without any intention of social distancing. And I am certainly not going to be in anything together with the sheep. Oh, and I'll try to #bekind. Yeah right.

Until next time,

Guy Montag

Non-sheep

Mike Dewine's #1 anti-fan

One who is not scared of a Chinese chest cold

About the Author

Guy Montag

Guy Montag began writing on Blog posts and social media some time ago. It wasn't until recently that his focus was forced to shift from small-time crimes committed by police departments and tax agencies, to the tyrannical worldwide problems that 2020 has produced. Mr Montag arrived at the Oracle with nothing but contempt in his heart for thug tyrants, and those who so willingly go along with the system.